

A Quiet Place Called You

There was a bright
girl enjoying life to the fullest.

A playful,
everyone's favorite girl...

Even in quiet moments too.

All seemed happy.

Her school's sports festival came,
and she was eager to join the fun!

The day was bright and filled with laughter.

In that moment,
her world changed...
bringing unseen shifts

She was taken to the ICU.

Her heart...

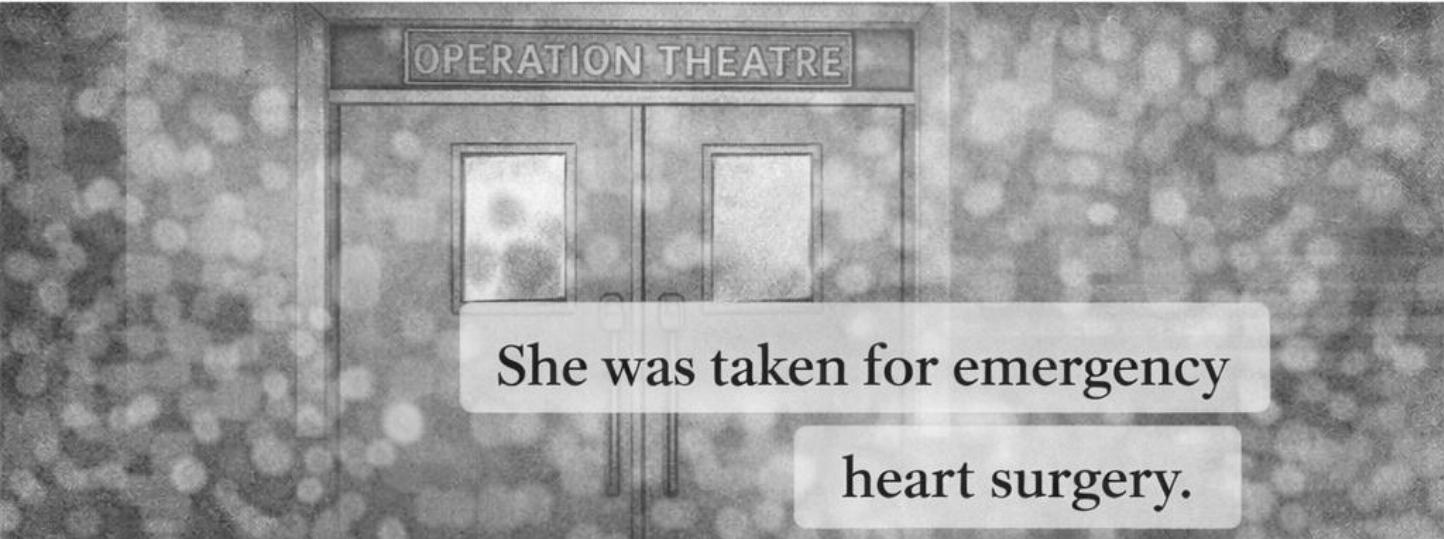

has a serious problem.

We have to operate soon.

Her heart needs surgery...

She was taken for emergency heart surgery.

They prayed... and waited.

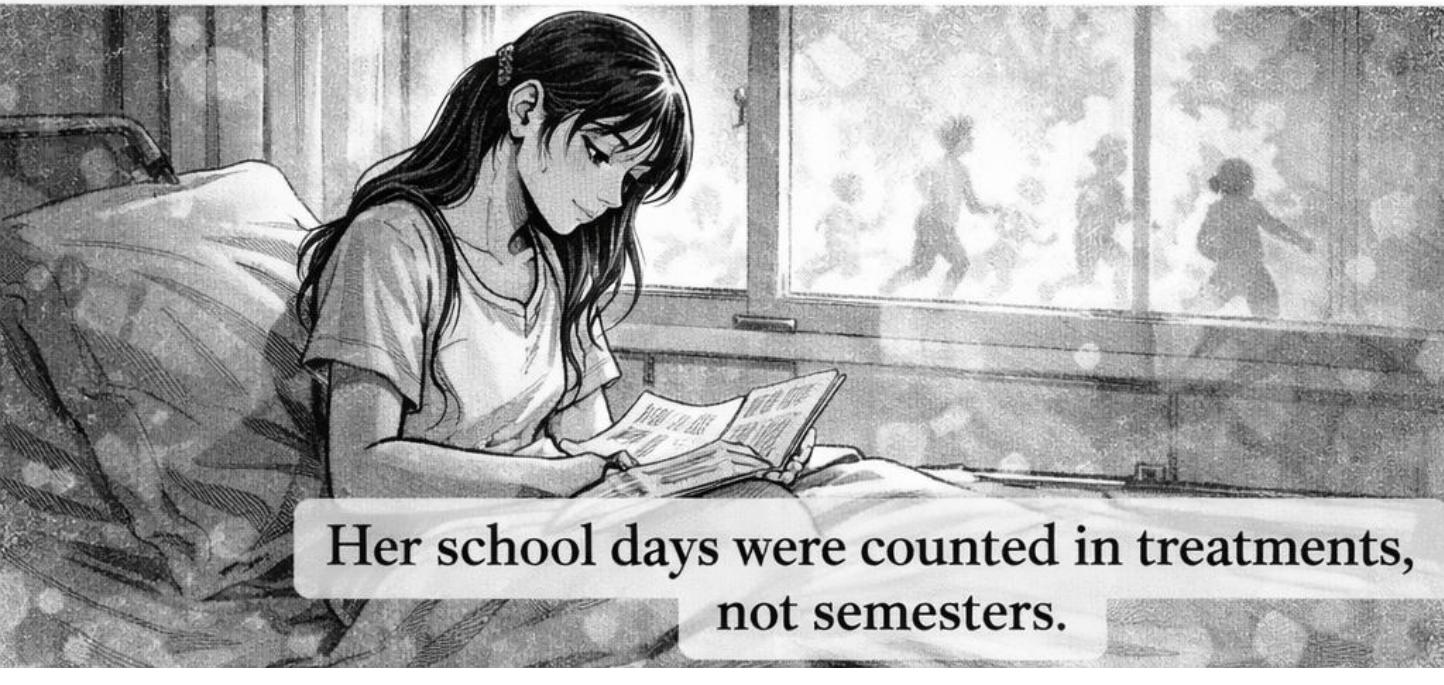

While others filled classrooms...

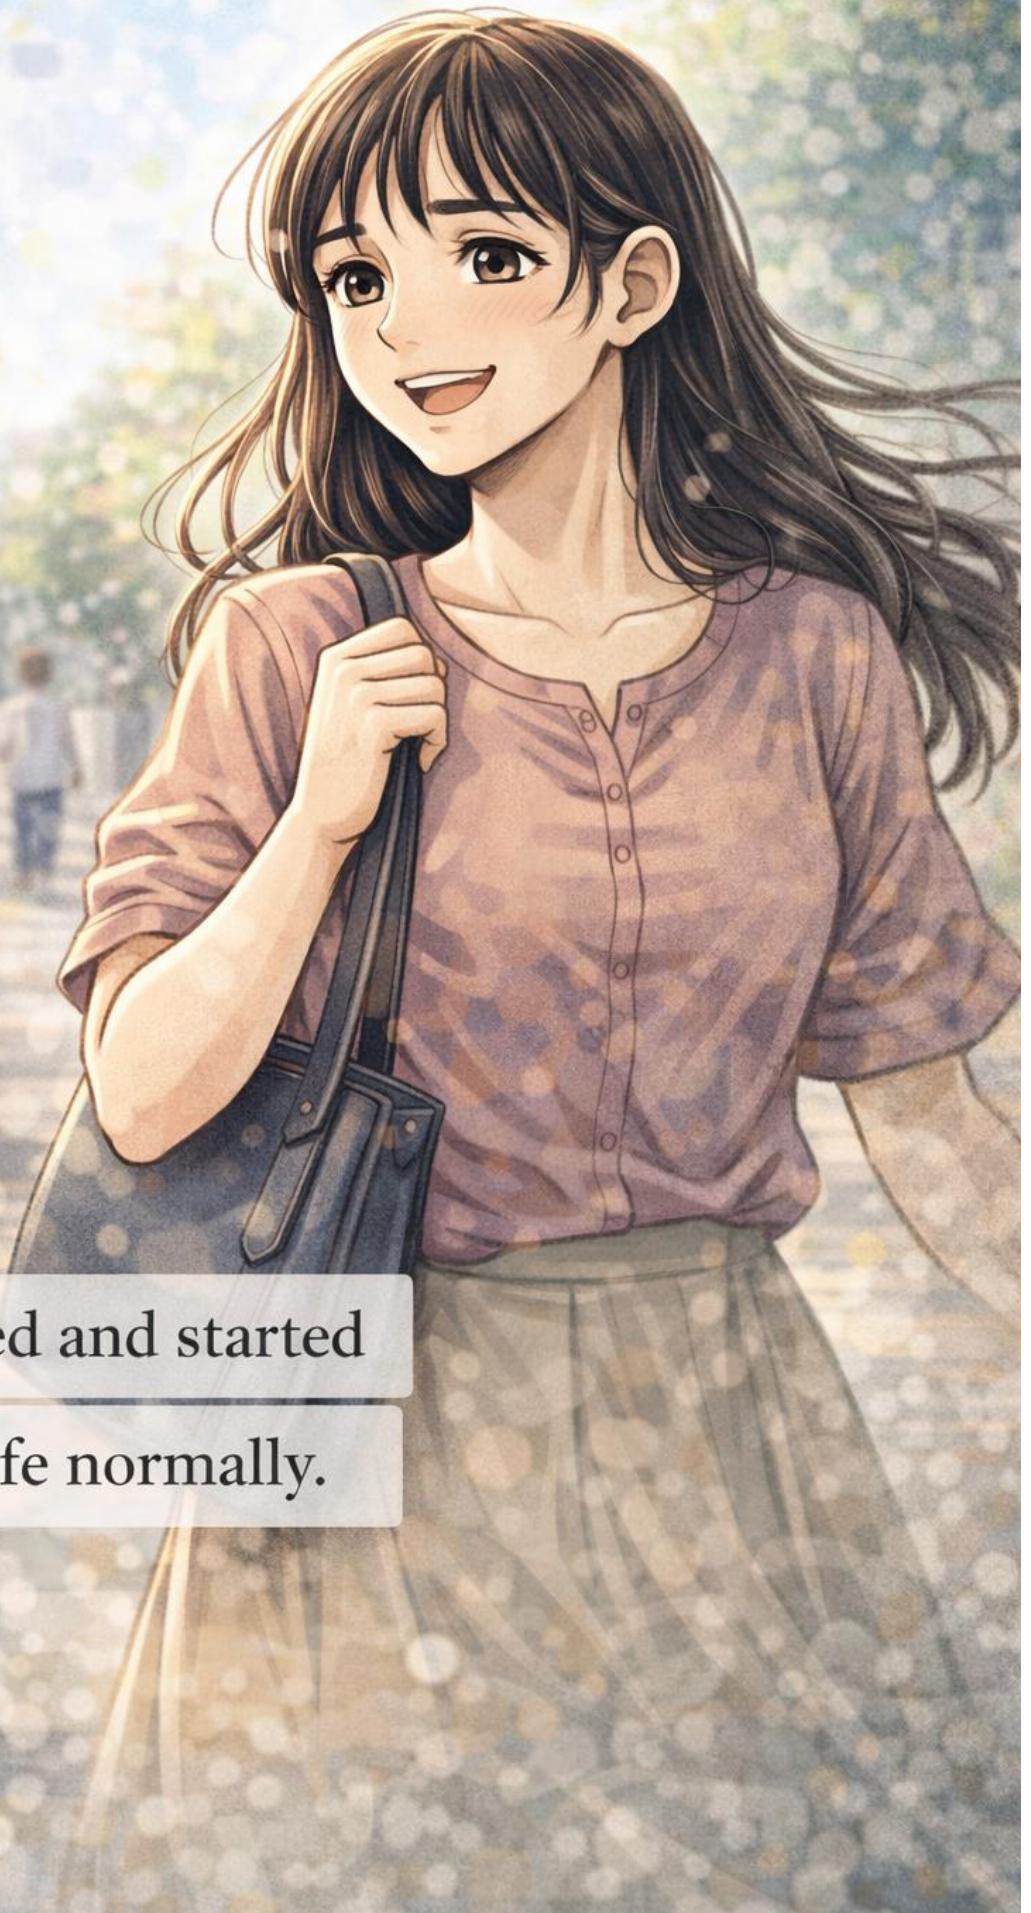

She learned hallways of hospitals instead.

Her school days were counted in treatments,
not semesters.

After her discharge

She returned and started living her life normally.

Someone she trusted... changed something.

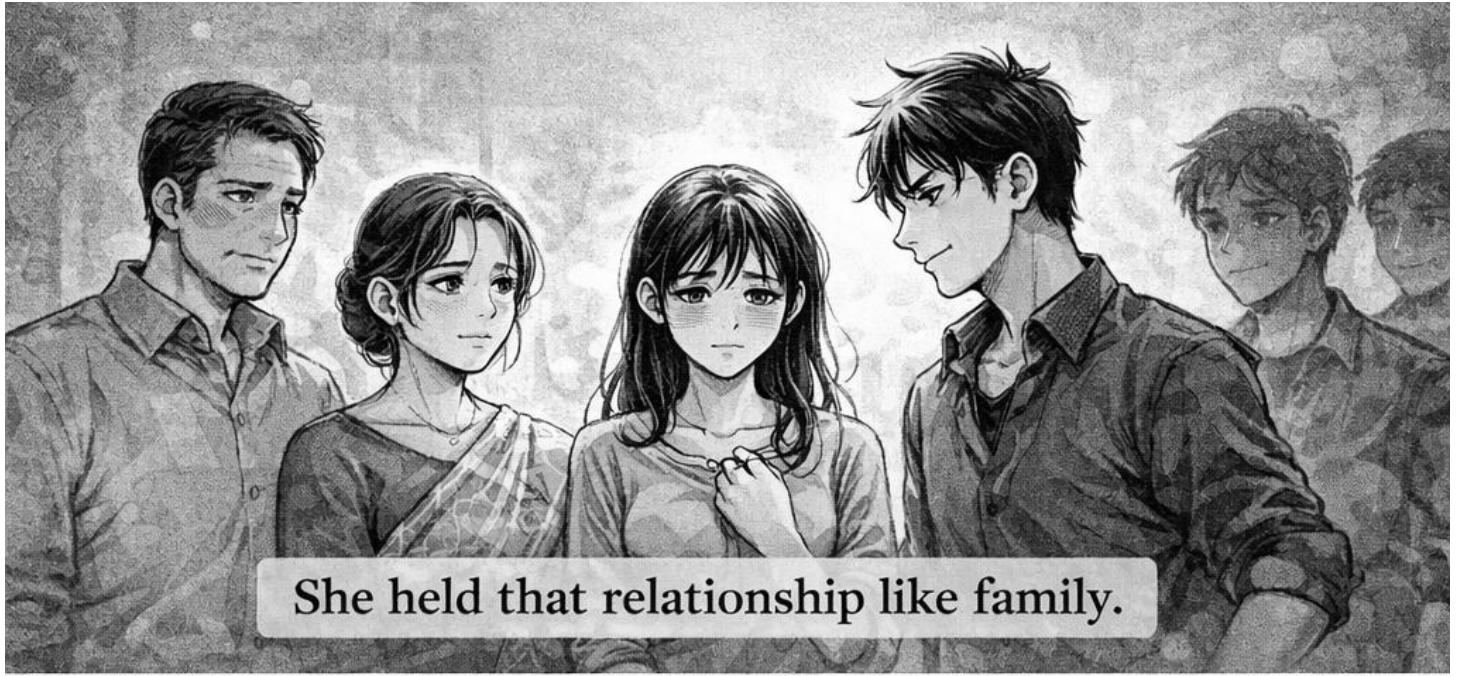

Respect was broken before she understood it.

From that day, trust was never simple again.

She held that relationship like family.

But all she received...

...were wounds.

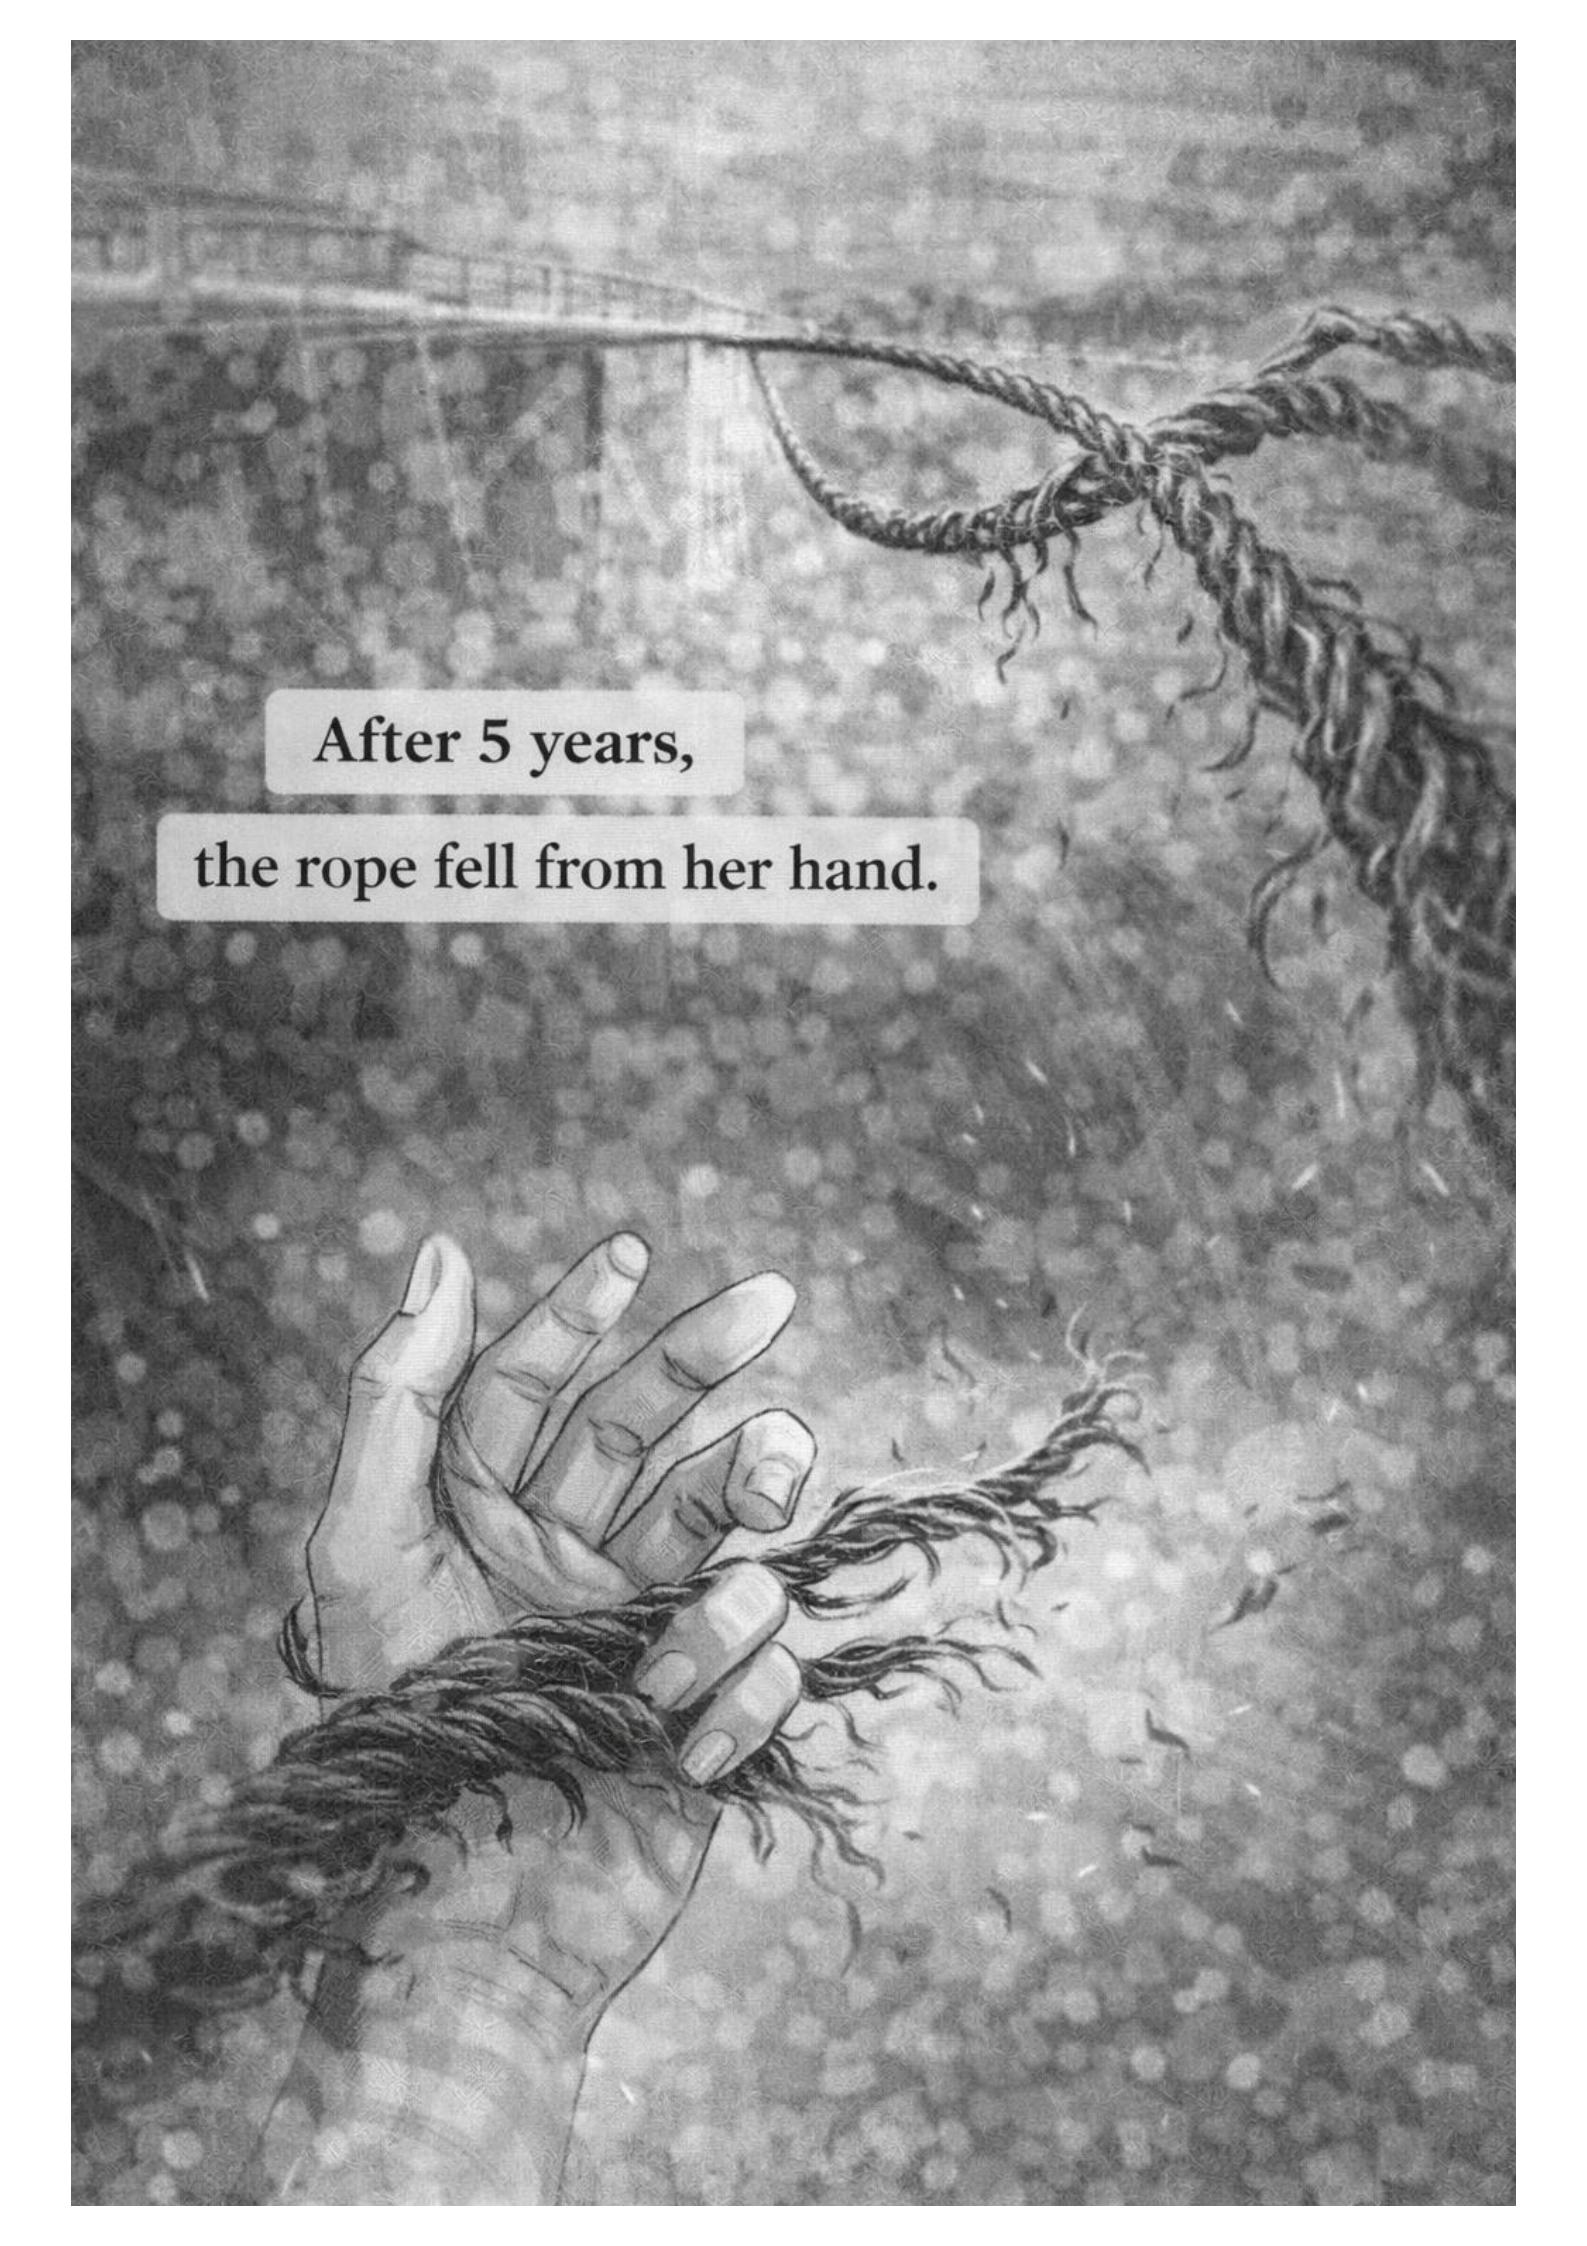

When she chose to leave...

they wouldn't let her.

When she chose to leave...

they wouldn't let her.

Lies. Pressure. Forced apologies.

After 5 years,
the rope fell from her hand.

They saw the pain she tried to hide.

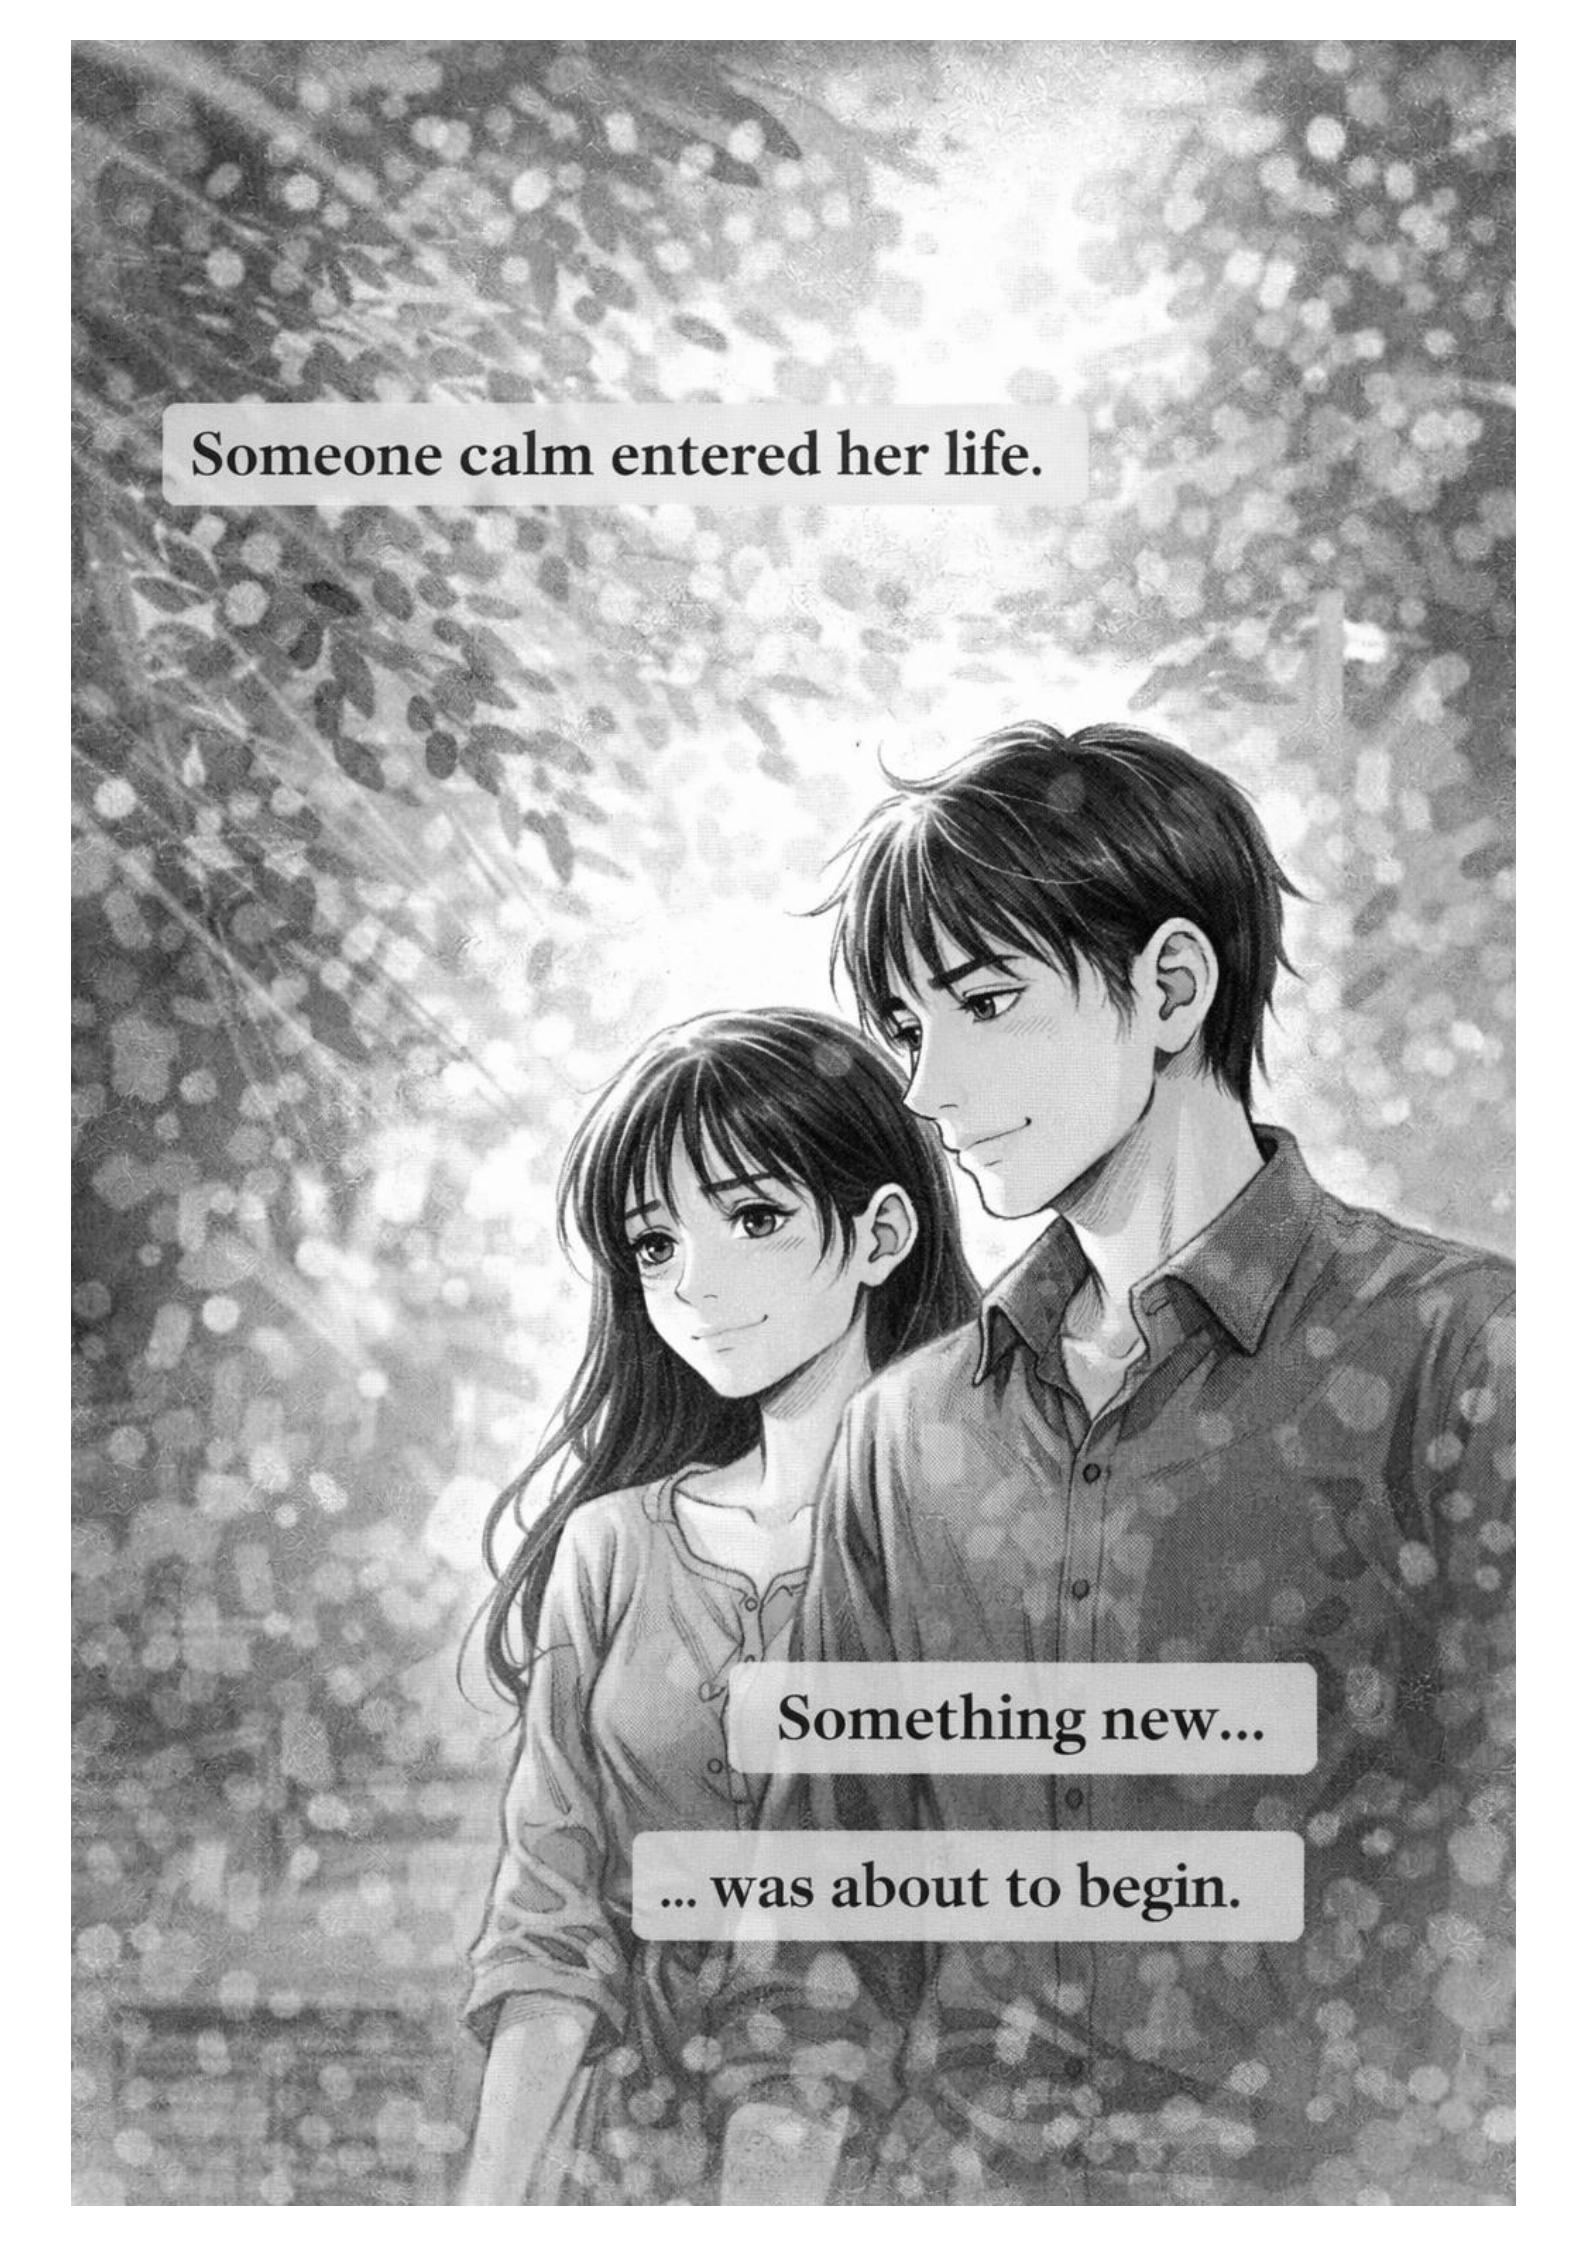

They tried to pull her back to herself.

But healing doesn't come just because someone says so.

Someone calm entered her life.

Something new...

... was about to begin.

His presence... just relaxed her nerves.

Being with him was... relief she hadn't known before.

When she realized it...

she attached.

IFI endured it... maybe it would stay.

Let's wait and see what she will face next in life...

